BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Francis J. Whitaker, known as Brother Thomas Whitaker, was born on 23 May 1916 in Bear Lake, Minnesota. He attended public school there and later matriculated at St. John's University in Collegeville, Minnesota, where he received a bachelor's degree in history. He became a novice at St. John's Abbey, taking his first vows on 26 December 1941.

In 1954, Brother Thomas was sent to live at one of St. John's missions, St. Maur's Priory at South Union, Kentucky. There he served as librarian for the school of theology and assistant procurator for the Priory. After serving several years as substitute postmaster at South Union, he was appointed postmaster in 1971 and held that position until 1987. When St. Maur's was closed at South Union in 1988, Brother Thomas and three other monks from Kentucky were received at St. Bernard Abbey in Cullman, Alabama.

Brother Thomas always enjoyed a keen interest in local history. This served him well at South Union, where he became captivated by the history of the Shaker community that had once occupied the Priory site. His research about the Shakers resulted in several published scholarly articles, newspaper articles, and conference presentations about the South Union colony, as well as this amassed collection of Shaker research.

Brother Thomas died on 15 January 1994.

COLLECTION NOTE

This collection contains correspondence and research notes related to Shakers in general and specifically the South Union Shaker community in Logan County, Kentucky. Most of the Shaker documents contained herein are photocopies of the originals or holographic notes taken by Whitaker.

Boxes 1 and 2 contain correspondence with various Shaker scholars and authorities, including Edward Deming Andrews & Faith Andrews, Wendell Hess, Rose Mary Lawson, and an extensive correspondence with Robert "Bob" F. W. Meader, who was the librarian/director at the Shaker Museum Foundation in Old Chatham, New York. Their correspondence is filled with Shaker research material as well as more intimate details about matters related to the contemporary Shakers. Box 2 also contains correspondence and news clippings about archeological excavations at Cook's Cave (Savage Cave) and other locations in Logan County, Kentucky. The last two folders of Box 2 contain information about the post office at South Union.

Boxes 3-5 include information on various families that lived at South Union as well as folders on topics related to the community, including research material and photos about various buildings. Box 4, Folder 7 contains several examples of Shaker seed packages. Box 5, Folders 4&5 contain manuscripts of a series of articles Whitaker wrote about the Logan County Shakers entitled "Shakertown Sketches" that was published in the Logan Leader.

Box 6 includes materials related to St. Maur's Priory and its operation at South Union from the mid-1950s until its closing in 1988. Folder 2 in this box contains interesting correspondence between Whitaker and Aloysius Earl Dressman and others about the similarities of Shakers and Benedictines, a topic about which Whitaker wrote several articles. Box 7 contains correspondence, research notes and manuscript articles about the Gasper River Meeting House in Logan County, including correspondence with Littleton Groom and other Presbyterian scholars (Folder 4).

Boxes 8-13 contain data about the various Shaker villages and museums in the United States as well as topical folders related to the Shakers in general. Boxes 14-15 include research materials about Catholic history. Of particular note is an original letter (1827), found in Box 15, Folder 2, written by Benedict Joseph Flaget to Henry Clay related to tariffs placed on European artwork that was imported for the Proto-Cathedral in Bardstown, Kentucky.
